The Care Bears were on a mission! The Icelings of the Silver Lining had gone missing, and with them, the Whiffles' favorite icy treat: Whiffle-Waffle cones.

"Okay, here's the plan," Cheer said as she and her fellow Care Bears climbed onto their scooters. "Find the Icelings' secret Ice Cave, get to the bottom of what's happening, and then make the Whiffles happy again!"

Share stepped out of the Cloudseeker with her own plan! While her friends looked for the Icelings, she was going to whip up some icy-cold Whiffle-Waffle cones herself.

"One of us can stay and help you . . .," Cheer offered.

Share shook her head. "I can handle this all on my own. It'll be a piece of cake . . . with ice cream!"

Share got right to work!

She gathered her supplies.

She mixed her ingredients.

She even ground up ice.

Finally, she had one cone ready to go.

Share was so proud of herself, but then she looked out at the Whiffles resting outside.

One cone was a good start, but it wouldn't go very far... There were a lot of Whiffles, and they all wanted cones!

“Luckily, I’ve got a few tricks up my sleeve,” Share said, activating her lollipop belly badge.

A moment later, several cones appeared in her hands. There was just one problem . . . they were very, very tiny cones!

Share’s face fell. “Oh no. I forgot our belly badge magic doesn’t work so well here in the Silver Lining.”

"I wonder if Grumpy's Mega-Magic Meal-o-Matic works on Whiffle-Waffle cones," Share said.

She poured her batter into the Meal-o-Matic, dumped in a tray of ice cubes, and hoped she could save the day. But the machine started shaking, and colorful blobs of batter flew around the kitchen.

Then Share realized she had an even bigger problem. She was almost out of ice!

Grinding up the last of her ice, she quickly put it into cones and brought them out to the Whiffles. She was sure these cones would make them happy.

But by the time Share got outside, the ice had melted! “Oh, dear,” she said. “I guess my ice wasn’t icy enough!”

From deep within the Icelings' Ice Cave, Bluster watched Share through his telescope. He was the one that had kidnapped the Icelings. It was the first step in his evil plan to force the Whiffles to leave the Silver Lining. The next step was getting rid of Share ...

Two of Bluster's Bad Crowd minions crept down to the Cloudseeker and left a trail of the Icelings' ice for Share to follow.

It didn't take long for Share to find the ice trail!

"This is special ice from the Icelings' cave!" she realized. "If this leads to the Ice Cave, I can get enough ice to make a zillion Whiffle-Waffle cones." She quickly hopped onto her scooter and followed the trail.

Soon, she arrived at the Ice Cave.

"Hello?" she called out. "Icelings?"

In the distance, she heard a quiet cry.

Share hurried farther into the cave. At the back, she found a giant cage made out of ice. Inside were the kidnapped Icelings!

"Oh, you poor things," Share said, approaching the cage. "Who did this to you? I'll get you out . . . somehow." She tried tugging on the icy bars, determined to free them.

Little did she know, she had walked right into Bluster's trap! Icy bars appeared all around Share, trapping her inside, too. "Oh no!"

"Bluster and Robbie?"
Share said. "What are you two up to . . . besides
no good?"

"Oh, just another one of my brilliant plans,"
Bluster stated.

"Your brilliant plan?"
Robbie interrupted.
"I invented the ice cannon!"

As Share watched,
the two evildoers began
to fight, and soon their attention was completely focused on each other.

While they were distracted, Share tried to escape. But it was no use . . . She couldn't do it alone.

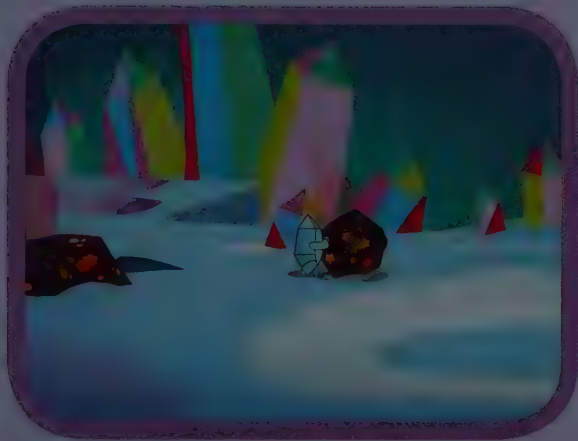

She turned to see the Icelings jumping up and down. "You want to help?" Share asked. "Here's the plan."

Share helped the littlest Iceling squeeze through the bars. Then, the Iceling ran over to a hot rock resting on the ice nearby.

Using all its strength, the little Iceling pushed the hot rock across the icy floor toward the bars of the cage.

The first bar quickly melted, allowing other Icelings to hop out and help melt the rest of the bars.

Soon, all the Icelings and Share Bear were free!

"Good going, guys," Share cheered. "What good teamwork!"

They all ran straight for the ice cannon. Behind them, Bluster and Robbie continued to fight.

“Well, if you’re so brilliant,” Robbie taunted, “how come I’m the only one who knows our prisoners have escaped?”

Before Bluster could respond, the Icelings shot the ice cannon at the evildoers!

They were frozen in a sled of ice!

The Icelings quickly ran behind Bluster and Robbie and gave them a big push. Waving their arms wildly, the two slid out of the Ice Cave.

The other Care Bears, who had been searching for the Icelings, arrived just in time to see the Bad Crowd slide down the snowy hill.

“Share?” Grumpy called out in surprise as Share and the Icelings stepped out of the cave.

“You found the Icelings?” Funshine asked.

“And beat the bad guys? All by yourself?” Grumpy added.

“Oh, goodness, no,”
Share said, gesturing to the Icelings. “There’s a lot you can do by yourself. But there’s so much more we can do together.”

And with that, the friends set off to finally get the Whiffles some much-needed Whiffle-Waffle cones.
